

Bladder and Bowel Community Product Information

Bed & Chair Protection

There are a range of covers and pads available to protect bedding and furniture. Plastic or PVC is the cheapest and also the most common material which is used for covers. However, plastic covers don't last very long as plastic becomes hard and splits. Plastic may be best to use in the short term, for taking away on holiday for example.

There are some new and improved fabrics which contain polyurethane and polyester. Products containing these new fabrics usually last longer, are not as noisy as plastic coverings and more comfortable. However, they are more expensive than plastic products. It is important to check the size of the mattress or cushion that you need to cover, as you want to feel that the cover you purchase fits properly and produces the protection that you need.

To get rid of smells, sponge the covers with a mild detergent or disinfectant.
